

online random-clean training from a trained FNO checkpoint for each batch: sample a random-field/source perturbation, keep the clean solver label, then update the online model

→ model forward → model backward → random field / source → cached clean label → copy / commit weights

