

sampled data move towards high loss region during using gradients

